Apple products with fantastic design and graceful aesthetic of both hardware and software attract tons of loyal Apple fans who're willing to pay a premium for Apple products. iPad is in no doubt one of the must-haves among most Apple fans. Amazon's Kindle Store featured with its largest ebook collection and lower prices makes it unbeatable when it comes to e-reading. iPad with larger screen is a good media for reading ebooks. With these two trends combined, it's only natural that more and more people want to purchase and download ebooks from Amazon Kindle to their iPads. So here's comes to what we're going to talk about in this article – how to buy and download Kindle books to iPad.

Why can't I buy Kindle books directly from the Kindle app for iOS on my iPad?

It is widely known that you can't actually purchase and download Kindle books directly from the Kindle app for iOS installed on your iPad. It's quite annoying but we need to face the reality that you can never purchase an Amazon product using an Apple product due to the Apple-Amazon standoff. Apple charges a 30% premium for in-app purchases of any kind—including ebooks, which is unaffordable for Amazon to accept the terms. If you're looking for a specific book, you search in the app, and you're brought to a product page: There's no option to buy and start reading, but rather two buttons: "Send a free sample" and "Add to Wish List." The only way to buy a Kindle book on iPad is to fire up the iPad's Safari web browser and visit Kindle Store on Safari to make the purchase and have it delivered to the Kindle app.

Part 1. Download and install Kindle for iOS on your iPad

Tap the App Store icon on your iPad's Home screen to open App Store;
Search for the Kindle app and tap "GET";
